

Casa Rural LA MANZANA

description: La Manzana is a traditional country house with stone walls and tiled roof which is located high up on a hillside. It is quiet, without noise and has splendid views over the sparsely populated rural hamlet amidst the mountains. In the old days the area was a source of wealth even in times of shortage.

At one end of the big, wood-and-tile-covered patio is the small and equipped kitchen. It leads to the spacious and convenient living/dining room, decorated with rustic furniture. Traditional elements have been preserved, like the niche that houses a typical water container made of clay. An artefact, which can also be found in one of the patio's walls.

The two bedrooms are decorated in the same style as the rest of the house. Access provides a small corridor which also leads to a small bathroom.

There are heaters and a de-humidifier. For your pastimes, board games are provided.

Between the house and an old shed is the terrace with barbecue.

The place is ideal for nature lovers and invites to walk the area. There are a number of walking trails, one of them passes by near the house. There are trails to neighbouring villages like Agulo and Hermigua, others lead into the Garajonay National Park, declared world's heritage by the UNESCO.

The park's main attraction is its ancient forest, the laurisilva. Its permanently green, exuberant vegetation with bearded laurel and heather trees is there to enchant you.

THERE IS ALMOST NO COVER FOR MOBILE TELEPHONES (HANDY).

Situation

From the national park's visitor centre Juego de Bolas follow the road towards the hamlet La Palmita. After having passed the square of the church San Isidro Labrador, you'll find the detour to the area called La Manzana. Follow the descending bed of the valley which goes through La Palmita and after 1km on paved road and another 300m on dirt road you'll reach a point where the precipice narrows. Right there leave the car and begin to ascend the way up to the house (a 200m way with steps). At about half the distance you pass the house of a neighbour. At the end of the path, opposite the casa La Manzana, there's another house of the same style.
